

Wodehouse Societies Around the World

The Wodehouse Society has the honor of being the world's oldest continuing organization devoted to P. G. Wodehouse. Happily there are more all over the globe, as this list shows. If any of this information is incorrect or out of date, or if you know of other groups, please let us know by writing to [WEBSITE EDITOR'S EMAIL ADDRESS TO COME].

United Kingdom

The P G Wodehouse Society \(UK\) was founded in 1997 and, with more than 1,000 subscribers globally, is probably the largest of all Wodehouse literary groups. They have a social media presence on Facebook and on X/Twitter. Information on joining can be found on their website. See more about what this society has to offer in Major Online Resources, above.

Australia

We don't know if this group is still extant, but Australian members can try contacting:

Netherlands

The Dutch P.G. Wodehouse Society was formed on PGW's 100th birthday in 1981 and is very active. Information and membership inquiries can be directed to: info@wodehouse-society.nl. The society also publishes an email newsletter, Nothing Serious, in Dutch, though it is possible to get an English summary of the contents.

Norway

Norway's society is called Blandings.no. The group is run by Morten Arnesen (aka Joss Weatherby), and in addition to a terrific website, they have a Facebook page (facebook.com/blandings.no) and YouTube channel (<https://www.youtube.com/@Blandings>).

Pakistan

The P.G. Wodehouse Society of Lahore was founded in 2016, as described in this article. Their contact information is:

The P G Wodehouse Society (Pakistan)
