

YouTube Videos

Search for Wodehouse on YouTube, and you will find mountains of videos and podcasts relating to The Master. What follows is just a very small selection.

Blandings.no: The Norwegian society's YouTube channel comprises a collection of videos about all aspects of Wodehouse's life and works. There are numerous playlists that include readings from Wodehouse, television series including Blandings and Wodehouse Playhouse, a movie version of By Jeeves, documentaries, audio recordings, and clips.

Blandings Castle: This site contains all the episodes of the 2013–14 television series Blandings, as well as the 1995 movie Heavy Weather, starring Peter O'Toole.

The Divine Comedy of P.G. Wodehouse: An interview with Richard Dawkins, who often manages to mention Wodehouse in his own works.

P. G. Wodehouse Discussing Jeeves and Wooster: Audiorecording of an interview with Wodehouse from the 1960s.

P G Wodehouse Podcast Series: This series of podcasts features seven celebrity Wodehouse fans who also happen to be patrons of The P G Wodehouse Society (UK). The series was produced to mark the 50th anniversary of Wodehouse's passing.

Plum: A Portrait of P. G. Wodehouse: This BBC documentary was first broadcast in 1989 and includes footage of an interview with PGW himself. There are also scenes from the 1989 tour of Wodehouse's England led by Norman Murphy.

Speaking Personally – P.G. Wodehouse: A recording from Wodehouse when he was 92 years old; includes a transcript.

Wodehouse Music Companion: Created by Harry Timetey, this site is devoted to all the songs and music mentioned in Wodehouse's novels and short stories. Relevant PGW quotations are displayed with the recordings of the appropriate song.

Wodehouse Playhouse: Numerous episodes of the classic series from the 1970s can be found on YouTube. At this site you will find all twenty episodes; note that the first seven were introduced by Wodehouse himself.